

National Gay and Lesbian
Task Force

Scope of Explicitly
Transgender-Inclusive
Anti-Discrimination Laws

These charts include laws that have legislative language that makes clear that transgender people are covered in the anti-discrimination law of the state, county or city. These charts do not include jurisdictions with favorable court or administrative rulings that have determined that “sex” or “disability” discrimination laws protect transgender people. This first chart includes jurisdictions that protect people from discrimination by private and public entities. The second chart includes jurisdictions that only protect the employees of that jurisdiction.

*Indicates that the Right to Sue applies for housing discrimination only.
  Indicates that only educational institutions that receive city funds are covered.
 ° In 2003, the Jefferson County and Louisville governments merged. In 2004 the new Metro Louisville city council re-passed the gender identity nondiscrimination law and added a private right of action.
 #The Oregon law will go into effect on January 1, 2008, but may face a challenge if opposition succeeds in getting it placed on a ballot measure.
